TORTURE IN DREAMS.

late an experience that seems to be phenomenal.

"I am twenty-seven years old; robust and sound, and I never knew of premature age coming upon any of my people. Yet I am gray and old far beyond my years. It all came about in a single night. When I was a boy, hungry, poor and forlorn, I was tempted into crime. I saw in a window open packtages of rich candies. By stepping inside the door and watching my opportunity I could reach one of them. I thought nobody was looking, but when I snatched one and fied I ran straight into the arms of a policeman on the pavement outside. I had a good mother, and the thought came that I had betrayed her and ruined myself. I was almost crazed with remorse. I begged to be released, but the officer did his duty. Next day when I was brought from jail and put on trial I saw among the motley crowd in the police court a man who did not seem to belong there. He proved to be the owner of the store from which I had stolen the candy. When I found this out my fright was increased. You can imagine my surprise that this gentleman, when called as a witness, withdrew all charges against me, and asked the court as a personal favor to discharge me. This request was granted. My new friend called me to one side after the trial, heard my story and seemed to have faith in my promises. He even took me into his store and advanced me from one position to another as the years rolled on, and finally made me chief clerk and gave me the keys to his safe.

"One night, just a year ago, I found myself down at the store at a late hour. We

"One night, just a year ago, I found my-self down at the store at a late hour. We self down at the store at a late hour. We had received a large sum of money after banking hours, and this had been placed in the safe in my keeping. For some reason I was tempted to go down town that night. I wandered into the store, sat around awhile and finally opened the safe. I was trembling violently all the time—why I would not confess until the conviction forced itself upon me that I was about to commit my second burglary. An infernal desire for that money had complete control of me. Finally I took out the money, put it in my pockets and locked up the safe. Then I went to work in a clumsy manner to conceal the crime. I a clumsy manner to conceal the crime. I thought I could pry off the lock and thus make believe that the safe had been robbed make believe that the safe had been robbed by experts. I was sweating at the felonious task when I heard a step behind me, followed by a voice: 'What in the world are you doing, John?'

"It was the voice of my employer and old friend—the man who had saved me from prison and who had given me a chance in the world. Great heavens! how I suffered. Cold blood-sweat stood out on me, and the thought of my treachery was agonizing beyond human endurance. I was suffering all the torture that Dr. Jokyll must have known in being transformed into Mr. Hyde. I felt the very elements of my body changing. O! glorious relief, sweet delight, when I found that all of this real suffering had been in nightmare only, and that I was still the trusted employe of a just man. Yot when I looked icto the glass next morning I found that the snow which comes upon ordinary mortals in old age had whitened my head during that struggle in my sleep."

DROWNING SWIMMERS.

What a Life-Saver Says to Them and What They Say to Him.

"Why do good'swimmers drown in the sea?" was asked by an Atlantic City corre-spondent of life-saving young Ed O'Brien, "I will tell you," he answered. "The

"I will tell you," he answered. "The men who are good swimmers, and who drown while in bathing here, are freshwater swimmers. They are good swimmers in smooth water, but when they tackle the sea they are no good. A good many, when in the water, goout too far to show off. Then when it comes to swimming back they give out and go down. These fresh-water swimmers have an idea that they must get back on a straight line. They know nothing about tides or currents, and they strike out swimmers have an due that they must get back on a straight line. They know nothing about tides or currents, and they strike out to get back to shore by the shortest route instead of finding out the current and swimming with it. The first thing they know they get into a wave that twists them all up. They don't know when to cut through it, and all of a sudden they lose their head, get out of wind, become scared and then comes the cry for help. A freshwater swimmer coming to any beach ought first to study the currents and tides before he ventures out. No one should venture out beyond the safety line unless he is thoroughly posted, no matter how good a swimmer he is in still water. If he knows the current and the tide thoroughly he will find it an easy matter to get back to shore in his own good time."

"What do you first say to a drowning man when you reach him?"
"I sing out to him as loud as I can that I have him safe. If I am in a boat I first nave him safe. If I am in a boat I first throw him a rope. When I go for a drown-ing man I always think of a life for a life. It is always best to keep a drowning man off from you until you have him quieted down. If an excited man gets the best of you in the water the chances are both of you will be lost."

"What is the first thing a saved man will generally say to you?"

"After he gets out and gets his wits back again, the first thing a man generally does is to smile, shake his head, and say 'that was a narrow-escape, sure.' Then he'll thank me over and over again, and if he owned the world he'd give three-fourths of it to me. A good many I have saved rewarded me hiberally, but I have helped out some men who promised me much, but never kept their promises." "What is the first thing a saved man will

Cornell University recently examined the records of all men who had engaged in intercollegiste contests since the opening of the institution to determine the influence of the pursuit of athletics upon scholarship. It was concluded that athletics, kept within reasonable limits, was not in conflict with the educational purposes of the institution. Crew men averaged 70 per cent, ball players 73 and track athletes 77 in scholarship for the year; 70 per cent. was necessary for graduation.

Water Problem.

At the Saturday meeting, one of the most important and satisfactory ever held in Reno, two distinct propositions were considered. First, how to equitably arrange and practically manage the relative interests of the appropriators of the waters of this State. This proposition looks to fixing and defining the rights of every appropriator, and guaranteeing to every individual his share of the water now naturally flowing into the rivers of the State. The committee appointed was charged with the labor of preparing a bill to that end.

Second. To determine what can best be done to increase the flow of water in the rivers and creeks of the State during the irrigation season and how best to do it. A Some of the members of the Chamber sterage of the flood waters or advocate a strong anti-Boulangist waters of over flood seemed to be waters of over flood seemed to be heasure by the government. They the practical scheme generally arged that General Campenon be entertained by the meeting. To sked to form a cabinet. entertained by the meeting. Te accomplish the desired improvement two plans were presented to raise funds. First by a general tax or bond on all of the taxable property of Washoe county for this county.

Second. By a land tax or land bond on all the land benefitted by the increase of the flow of water in the water courses of the State during the irrigation season. The committee were requested to investigate these questions and report to an adjourned meeting, and the meeting adjourned to meet at the call of the committee.

INSTRAD of endeavoring to agree upon a reasonable reduction of the salaries of State officers and a material cutting down of State expenses, certain legislative smallbore statesmen are favoring the abolition of the office of Lieutenant-Governor right in the middle of the present incumbent's term. While the people, by a constitutional amendment, may have the power to perpetrate this wrong, the exercise of such authority would be an outrage. Lieutenant-Governor Davis accepted the nomination for his office with a perfect understanding that if elected, he was to hold the position for a full term of four years, and any attempt at any time before the expiration of the term for which he his speech the King alluded to the was elected to legislate him out of oills which would be introduced by office is but little less than infamous, and reflects no credit upon the promoters of this contemptible scheme. In addition to the above, a reference to the vote of 1886, will show that Mr. Davis was no load show that Mr. Davis was no load for his party to carry, as he received 865 mere vetes than Governor Stevenson, an l a majority of 429 greater than Congressman Woodburn, Surveyor - General Jones being the only man on the ticket who polled a larger major-

Some of the papers of the State are trying to create the sentiment that suggestions from county grand juries in regard to legislation are out of place, that in making them they are meddling with things they have no business with. For the benefit of these who have not the information we will say that there never was a grand jury in this State that did not receive, in its charge from the Judge, instructions that it was its right and duty to make any suggestions it felt to be for the benefit of the State or county and ask for new laws or the repeal or amendment of old ones. The right of petition is well established on this continent and the resolutions of grand juries are of this nature.

Boulanger Victorious.

Paris, Jan. 28.-In consequence of the victory of Boulanger, the Ministery tendered their resignations this morning, but the President declined to accept them.

The Cabinet held a meeting this morning and discussed measures to be adopted in the event of disorders urising. It is stated that a majority of the Ministers are in favor of dissolving the Chambers and holding a general election in April, but first modifying the electoral laws, in order to prevent plebiscitary proceedings.

President Carnot held a conference this morning with many men prom-ment in political life. It is the Presi-dent's intention to await events and to accept all the responsibility the situation involves. Floquet has decided to resign or to take any other action that the Chamber may consider to the interest of the Populsia. to the interest of the Republic.

Three per cent. rentes for accounts were quoted this afternoon at 82 francs 95 centimes—a decline of but 5 centimes from Saturday's closing quotations. The price to-day at the close of the Bourse was 82 francs and 75

The Republican journals while adnitting that the election of Boulanger is a serious reverse, declare that it is is a serious reverse, declare that it is not sufficient to discourage the party, which must unite more closely against the threatened Cæsarism. The Monrichist papers assert that the result of the election is a condemnation of a Parliamentary republic, and presages ts downfall. The Boulangist organs amphatically declare that the election is a blow to the Government. a blow to the Government. The Figaro says that at to-day's session of the Chamber, Jouvincell, a Radical, will question the Government as to will question the Government as to what measure it will adopt to check the spread of Boulangism. Floquet will reply to Jouvincell's interpellation at length. Several arrests were made, out no serious outbreak occurred. The election was held yesterday to fill a vacancy in the Chamber, for the de-certment of Cote partment of Cote.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The Presi uted the senter James D. Fish, formerly President of the Marine National Bank of New York, who was convicted in April, 1885, of misapplying the funds of that bank and sentenced June 27, 1885, to ten years' imprisonment in the State prison at Auburn, N. Y. The President's indorsement in this case is as follows: "This convict is 69 years of age. Prior to his conviction he was trusted and respected by all who knew him, and all his dealings and intercourse with his fellow men, both in business and social life, had been such as to se-cure their confidence and esteem. In cure their confidence and esteem. In the view I take of the application for his pardon, there is no occasion to re-fer to the nature of his offense, nor to comment upon the evidence upon which his conviction rests, further than to suggest that this is a case in which the actual and wilful intent to defraud depend upon influences somewhat uncertain. I have hardly, if ever, seen a petition for Executive elemency signed so numerously. as the one presented in this case by citizens of great respectability and business standing. The prisoner, since his conviction, has aided the administration of the criminal law by giving valuable testimony upon the trial of another offender, and he has endured his imprisonment thus far with all the fortitude and resignation possible, and has been scrupulously obedient to all has been scrupniously obedient to all the prison rules and regulations. Medical proof produced before me fully establishes the fact that, with dvanced age and serious disabilities by reason of his confinement, he is physically and mentall fast failing, and I am satisfied he will not survive his imprisonment if longer extended. Every object to be obtained by the punishment of the crime will be accomplished, in my opinion, by the commutation of the convict's sentence to imprisonment for the term of five years and six months, with allowance of dedection for good conduct. Such commutation is therefore granted."

A Distressing Accident.

New York, Jan. 28 .- A serious accident occurred on board the steamship Republic of the White Star line after her passengers were landed on the wharf at the foot of West Tenth street yesterday, fourteen being fatally and several others seriously injured.

The cause of the accident was the breaking of one of the furnace flues. An hour after the last of her twenty cabin passengers had left the whar, and the officers and employes were preparing to leave also, there was a sharp report, and in an instant the stokers room was filled with blinding suffecting steam. So powerful was the current of scalding vapor which came pouring out of the mouth of the furnace, that the men who stood in its path were blown violently to the iron floor, where they lay shricking and crying for some one to save them crying for some one to save them. The hot steam was eating away the flesh from their bones.

The following is a list of the injured:

Second Engineer Yates and Fifth Engineer Ebbs were terribly burned. Dyer, Collins, Mc-Farland and Leonard are thought to be fatally injured.

THE GEORGIA MINSTREL.

A Fine Performance to be Given To-night The famous Georgia Minstrels will be here to-night so don't get left.

The Duluth Tribune says.

The famous Georgia Minstraels gave a performance at the Opera House last evening before a larve audience. There were many good features of a novel character, which were heartily applauded by the audience. J. A. Warts made a hit in his female impersonations, and George Jackson, the comical comedian, took the house by storm. The singing by the Cra-ent City Quartette was very fine and worthy of particular mention. The great and only Billy Kersauda was of course the star of the evening, and in his original specialites was most amusing. The performance concluded with the plantation scene. "Sosan Brown's Weddieg," which was very amusing.

What Was Said and Done After the "Gasette" Press Hour Sat-

Saturday a very interesting and valuable debate was kept up on the water question until nearly 5 o'clock over the general propositions raised by Mr.

Mapes' request for instructions for the committee. He said there was not a ditch in the valley with settled rights, and it affected the whole question of land values. Pierce Evans introduced a resolution directing the committee to investigate the desirability of imposing a tax upon Washoe county to create a water storage fund. He said there were no laws governing water rights, and that mater also should be attended to at once. Neither Congress nor the State Legislature had ever made laws governing the business, and in case of dispute the Courts of Nevada and California had to go away back to the ancient doctrine of riparian rights. He and Mr. Julien explained this doctrine, Mr. Julien claiming that it did not conflict with the practice of appropriation. Evans thought it did, and that the full stream was called for throughout its whole court, length, citing the Reduction Works in May. and Kern county cases. Mr. Beck ex-plained the bearing of the former and is connection with the doctrines of Mr. Leete introduced a resolution directing the committee to consider the proposition of taxing the property to be benefited.

Mr. Thompson said he was in favor f taxing the whole county. He lived in Washoe valley, and he was willing to pay, and he wanted the railroads to pay and everybody to pay. It would make property and wealth for every-

Mr. Fulton called Mr. Beck to the chair and outlined a plan which he thought would work well and save money for the ditch owners. His idea was first to ascertain how much water each ditch was entitled to. After that each ditch was entitled to. After that was done, to form an association, giving each its proper share of the stock, and bond the whole to raise money for a water storage system. He said the gods help those who help themselves, and if the farmers depended on the county or State Government to move for them they would wait lower and for them they would wait longer and pay more than to go right ahead themselves, for it always costs the Govern-ment more to do anything than it does individuals, and if the county taxes itself and saves up water, whoever buys it will pay all it cost and more. He explained the Colorado system of of irrigators in that State. After a running debate among those present, Judge Bigelow took the floor, present, Judge Digelow took the noor, and gave a very clear and interesting account of the method pursued in Wyoming of surveying the several ditches in order to provide data for future reference, and the method of Colorado in dividing the water among the owners, and in California of districting and taxing property to get means to work with. He recom-mended a system combining the good in all three, and it was received with favor by every one present. The agitation promises to be one of the best things that ever came up in this county, and the whole State must be benefited if it succeeds here. The meeting adjourned, to meet at the call

Who Can It Be?

The Eureka Sentinel "catches a story on the wing of a scandal in high social circles, involving a prominent lady of the State. The rumor is that the lady, who has for years been a society darling in Western Nevada, has found in San Francisco a male affinity to whom she is sticking closer than a leech. Her name would create a pro-found sensation if make public. The story is authenticated, but we think it quite well to withhold names and racy particulars. The public will get all of the facts soon enough. The liason is too pronounced to be long con-cealed."

EDITOR GAZETTE: The tariff dis-John Sunderland to day received a cusssion continues in the Senate, and pile of new goods as high as a load of notwithstanding the great "educaassion continues in the Senate, and tional campaign" we have just passed through, the subject seems inexhaus table. The Southern Senators have been kept in hot water, so to speak, all week by forcible reminders from those representing manufacturing and progressive States, that instead of mapping out a course for protected industries that are comparatively unkown to their constituents to purshe, and which protection they are pleased to term "robbery," they should do something to develop the dormant resources-cotton growing excepted-of the sections of country they represent, and thereby accomplish a common good. When statistics are produced showing the immense growth of the North and the West during the past ten years, and the little progress that has been made in the South in the same time, the pill proves bitter for the brigadier Senator to swallow. The old-excuse of defeat in a war that ended more than twenty years ago is growing stale, and they know it. They have been very frequently and very forcibly reminded, too, that in framing the Mills bill none of the products and industries - scattered and comparatively insignificant though they may be-of the South were tampered with. while those of the North were, almost without exception, assailed and threatened. Many of the items of the substitute tariff bill, as they were called up in the Senate for discussion were debated at considerable length by our

Speaking of backwardness of the growth of the South-I except four or five small cities that have made rapid strides during late years, through Northern enterprise and Northern capital-calls to mind a problem that is being discussed at length in the Eastern press as retarding the growth of that great section so bountifully favored by nature—namely, the pre-dominance of the negro race. The junior Senator, who has given the matter much thought and study, as

was evident from the many statistics dominance of the negro race. The thought occurred to me the other day as it, no doubt, has to many; inasmuch as the negro is not a land-owning class, why not direct the tide of a desirable class of foreigners thither and thus infuse new life? establish colonies as in the West, and if necessary, sell tracts of 40 and 80 acres of land to heads of families for, say, $5 an acre—less than good and conveniently located land can be bought for in the West? These and similar questions occurred to me, and I asked them of an intelligent North

Carolinian, with whom I am well ac-quainted, and his answer was: "We are willing to accept a desirable class immigrants from the North and West, but we don't want any of your Dutch or Irish."

In looking over the Congressional Record of the past week I see that on Thursday last Congressman Woodburn had another tilt with Congressman Cox of New York, who scarcely ever speaks of Nevada, except in a sneering way. The admission of New Mexico to Statehood was being discussed by the New York Congressman, and he read an extract from a letter written by a Britishor. It was don't be well as the congress of the most productive States in the Union. Its wast mineral regions contain gold, silver, copper, iron and coal. Its immense tracts of grazing lands support thousands of cattle and sheep, and its extensive agricultural regions produce all the cereats in abundance, the yield per acre being, in some instances, the largest in the world. Cox of New York, who scarcely ever by a Britisher. It was about Nevada's small population and her representathe two Houses of Congress tion in and it bore a spirit of contempt in every line. Woodburn, equal to the occasion, arose and stated that he noticed the gentleman was generally obliged to cross the Atlantic Ocean for material to bear him out in his assertions during debates. The Cobden Club free-trader was "rattled" for a time, for he dislikes to be reminded of his English alliances, and at such times is unable to conceal his feelings.

I met Mr. Woodburn yesterday and asked him what he intended doing when the present Congress adjourned, and his reply was: "Oh, I shall go

It is generally believed that the Pacific coast will be represented in the Cabinet. But by whom? That is the question. Some say Swift, who is anxious for the honor. Others say Stewart, who has, I am reliably informed, refused to entertain the idea of accepting it. The Senator's legal ability and his knowledge of the re-quirements of the West particularly recommend him strongly for the In-

New York City, as usual-notwithstanding she continues to roll up a 50,000 Democratic majority at Presidential elections—is clamoring for the Secretary of the Treasury, but importers of other large cities are reminding Mr. Harrison that they are minding Mr. Harrison that they are tired of competing with New Yorkers who are favored either by the Custom-house officials there or by the Treasury Department in making importations. The silver men and the national bankers are also interested in this selection. In looking over the Louisville (Ky.) Post the other day I chanced upon the following item concerning a lady very favorably known in Western Nevada, which will, no doubt, be of interest to many of your readers:

"A niece of Senator Stewart of Ne-

Mrs. Senator Stewart and her daughter, Maybelle, have returned to Paris from Monte Carlo, where they spent two weeks on account of the latter's temporary poor health. Miss Stewart is pursuing a course of studies in pursuing a course of studies in euilly, a suburb of Paris. Hon. F. A. Tritle and wife, formerly

They will remain here until April, when they will go to Paris to enjoy the

The unthinking are prone to make game of servousness. Yet this is a very real and serious affiction, the harassing symptoms of which are rendered all the more poignant by ridicule. The stomach is usually resp ridicule. The stomach is usually responsible for these symptoms—its weakness and disorder find a reflex in the brain, which is the headquarters of the nervous system. As a nerve 'onic and tranquillizer, we believe that not one can be pointed out so effective as Hostetier's Stomach Bitters. In renewing vigorous digestion it strikes the key note of recovery of strength and quietude by the nerves. Headache, tremors in quiet sieep, abnormal scassitiveness to unexpected noises—all these modify and ultimately disappear as the system gains strength from the great tonic. SCANDAL AND NOTORIETY.

The morbid desire to see one's name print, which invades every rank of mode society, seems to be on the increase, and, unless checked, will, writes Hobart Chatfield Taylor in America, eventually do away with the sanctity of private life. There is unquestionably a growing impression that the private affairs of men, and even women, are public property to be "written up" at will by any journalist who is clever enough to become acquainted with them. Nor is the desire for goasip created entirely by the demands of the reading public; the people who are written about seem far from averse to such notoriety, and often themsalves aid the newspaper man in his work. There is undoubtedly an increasing number of people imbued with a desire to live a double existence—the private life, which the most field Taylor in America, eventually do away existence—the private life, which the most common-place person must lead, and the public life, which arises when one becomes the subject of newspaper notoriety and pub-the subject of newspaper notoriety and public curiosity.

The founder of the most scurrilous New York society paper once remarked that "there were two ways in which a paper might attain success. One was to praise people in the highest terms, and the other to drag well-known characters in the slough of scurrility. If the former course is adopted the paper is read by those of scurrility. If the former course is adopted, the paper is read by those who are praised. When the latter course is followed, every one reads the paper." This is a keen and mordant comment on human nature, but is in a great degree substantiated by the remarkable success of scurrilous sheets. Calm and just dignity are most commendable in a newspaper, but the most commendable in a newspaper, but the journals which adopt this course are apt to be crushed by the weight of dignity, and die be crushed by the weight of disnity, and die for lack of support.

It is considered the correct thing for men and women to be horrified when their names form the subject of spicy paragraphs in popular sheets, but not a few men and many women feel slighted when they are ignored by the news gleaper. Some journalists even seek praise for their adroitness in penetrating the privacy of commonplace existence to reacue some mortal from obscurity. Writers do not always feel ashamed of the means they employ in rushing a person into print, but, on the contrary, feel they have supplied the craving for gossin, and have conferred a lasting favor upon the individual whom they bring into publicity. The devices to which mediocral people reand nave conterred a insting lavor upon the individual whom they bring into publicity. The devices to which mediocral people resort in order to attract the newspaper man's attention are only excelled in their man's attention are only excelled in their absurdity by their cunning; and all to what end! That the reading public may learn that So-and-so is the subject of newspaper mention, and is enrolled in the troop of society's pariah dogs which hover about the social lion's heels. Like their canine protetypes, they are often sacrificed to the modern Anubis, who presides over the funeral rites of lost reputations.

A French philosopher once stated that society is divided into two classes—those who are fools, and those who commit fol-lies." The indiscretions of the latter class is a candal cup from which the eager fools greedily drain the last dreg. Do the deluded creatures who rush into notoriety feel gratified to learn that, to the world they are characters far different from wha they themselves have the consciousness of being? Half the blessing of existence lies in having friends whom we can know and understand; who will reciprocate our friendship, and sympathize with us in success and trouble. But does the other half lie in build ng an artificial masking for our existe which shall make us appear to the world in an unnatural character, and preclude the possibility of close and congenial intimacy with those about us!

Those who serve the public in preminent especities must necessarily lead a public and a private existence; and though the public character rarelyreflects the real nature of the man, it often reflects his better qualities. But the public men who assume attributes he does not possess, in order to pose before his constituents as a paragon of pose before his constituents as a paragon of virtue, is a hypocrite of the worst type, and will sconer or later have the disguise torn off. Publicity may demand a certain amount of acting, and make a dual char-acter a necessity, but the public character should be founded upon honest worth, called forth by popular demand.

The creatures do not belong to the public, but rather force themselves into attention, with no other claim to distinction than the notoriety of scandal and the morbid craving for public notice, are but mere social gnats fluttering about the light of fame. Unfortunately their numbers are increasing. They have no public duty, but want to belong to the public, and, as a re-suit, they receive the sting of notoriety without being inspired by the stimulus of fame. The wish of private persons to be talked about, and written about, and the public demand for scandal, are desires of soul-corrupting tendencies, which, like the taste for narcotics, become deeper and deeper with each indulgence.

Some time after he had left the building the missing pocket-book was found by a boy, who gave it to the proprietor of the store, by whom it was returned to Mr. Sage in the presence of the finder. A Wedding in Ireland.

An amusing story comes from Trales in Ireland. A wedding was about to be celebrated, when, at the last moment, the bride's parents refused to pay her dowry, alleging as their reason that the groom had been recently wounded by the Fenians, and was still under the protection of the police. According to them it was reasonable to suppose that the Fenians would not fail on the next occasion, and that, in consequence, the dowry would be sacrificed. After a long discussion a compromise was agreed upon and the marriage was celebrated, the hus-
